This Is the Moment
Everything
Comes Together

Your Team's Challenge Journey:

- Get ready for what's next
- Get company support
- Build your team
- Set a goal
- Fundraise
- Walk & Celebrate

Walk Day isn't just the finish line; it's your chance to celebrate what your team has built. After weeks of small actions and shared effort, take a moment to recognize the impact you've made together.

1. Celebrate on Walk Day

Whether your team is attending a signature Walk event or hosting your own Walk Anywhere gathering, use the moment to come together and mark what you've achieved.

- Gather for a team photo
- Share a few words of appreciation
- Recognize the effort that got you here
- Enjoy the atmosphere and connection with others

It doesn't have to be formal. A simple moment of acknowledgement can make the day more meaningful for everyone.

2. Thank Your Team

After the Walk, take a moment to thank the people who made it all happen.

Together, your team has helped improve the lives of millions of people across Africa, Asia, and the Middle East. That impact is worth celebrating. A quick message of appreciation in a meeting, email, or team chat, goes a long way. You can also remind teammates to thank their own donors.

3. Recognize and Celebrate Your Team

Close the challenge by acknowledging the people who made the journey meaningful. Recognition helps everyone feel proud of what they've accomplished together.

You might give a few lighthearted awards, highlight a top fundraiser or creative idea, thank someone who brought great team spirit, or recognize a standout new participant. It doesn't need to be formal: a quick shout-out or small token of appreciation is enough to make the moment memorable.

Consider hosting a short wrap-up moment over coffee, lunch, or a quick virtual gathering to celebrate your team's efforts together.
